

Judith Falloon-Reid

Jamaican launches Antarctica exhibition

Thursday, January 09, 2020

1 comment

ON February 12, the National Library of Jamaica (NLJ) will host the launch of Aaah-Inspiring Antarctica Experience - A Jamaican on Ice, an event that comprises several art forms including a photo exhibit, book launches and a film, by Jamaican author and filmmaker Judith Falloon-Reid.

The experience includes the launch of two books — Aaah-Inspiring Antarctica: a pictorial coffee table book that includes her actual blog written while travelling to the white continent, and Antarctica Adventures with a Jamaican on Ice, a children's book. Patrons will also view an exhibition of approximately 40 original photos of scenery and wildlife taken by Falloon-Reid herself in Antarctica; a short film that chronicles her visit to the continent while provoking thought about the effects of climate change on the region and ultimately the globe; and a talk.

Falloon-Reid travelled to Antarctica in February 2007 with a team of journalists. Her journey took her to Buenos Aires for several days before going on to Ushuaia, the southernmost city in the world from where she boarded a ship to cross the Drake Passage and onto the continent. "As a writer and avid traveller, I believe there is more education to be had in the experiences gained during travel than one will ever read about in a book," she said.

Related Articles

Sydney Mindkind reworks These Girls

Emile chants down Babylon

Zizi looks to the stars

Iyda Wayda pleads guilty to gun rap, pays fine

DJ Insaneo finds his rhythm

George Nooks gives it his all

Night Nurse goes silver

Moving to Bond's beat

Lion Face roars in Divorce Court

'Lion King' actor needs blood
8 Comments

ADVERTISEMENT

POLL

Cast Your Vote

ADVERTISEMENT

All p
to te

“I created Aaah-Inspiring Antarctica: The Experience in the hopes of motivating others to travel far and wide for adventures and experiences beyond our own imaginations,” she continued.

The launch will be followed by Students' Day on February 13 to which scores of students from the Corporate Area have been invited to meet, view the exhibit and film, as well as engage in discussions about climate change.

“The experience offers an opportunity for students to learn about a unique part of the world few ever think of and fewer still may have the opportunity to visit,” said Monique Forgie-Scott, collections manager at the NLJ. “It is only fitting that the National Library be involved in providing the avenue for such an educational opportunity, and we are excited to see it come to fruition.”

The main exhibit will remain on display at the National Library for a month, while Felloon-Reid takes a smaller exhibit on tour around the island. The exhibition will then travel to various cities in the US, beginning with Lauderhill and Palm Bay in Florida.

Now you can read the Jamaica Observer ePaper anytime, anywhere. The Jamaica Observer ePaper is available to you at home or at work, and is the same edition as the printed copy available at <https://bit.ly/epaper-login>

ADVERTISEMENT

More News This Week

All parish courts soon to allow witnesses to testify from remote locations

Bunting faces contempt of court action

Former Jamaican athlete Adolphus Nevers dies at 31

Hanover Western MP urges constituents to get vaccinated

Miss Jamaica was a confidence builder for Mitsy Seaga

by Taboola

Today's Toon

Previous Cartoons »

ADVERTISEMENT

If You Have Toenail Fungus Try This Tonight (Genius!)

Fungus Eliminator | Sponsored

Murphy Beds For Cheap

Murphy Beds | Search Ads | Sponsored

Learn More

New Kia's Finally On Sale

All Things Auto | Sponsored

Learn More

Top Heart Surgeon: This Simple Trick Helps Empty Your Bowels Every Morning

Gundry MD Bio Complete 3 Supplement | Sponsored

Learn More

Accept challenge, decide who you'll be in a month

Create a personalized training plan based on BMI, weight, height, age, daily activity, and eating habits. Take 2-minute quiz

madmuscles.com | Sponsored

All p to te